11	1:00 p.m.	11	MS. HAGA-BLACKMAN: Jannie Cox.
12		12	MR. MARQUEZ: She froze or sitting really
13			still.
14		14	TREASURER SHEAFE: I think she's muted. So
15			you can say "here." We can see here.
16		16	MS. HAGA-BLACKMAN: Mark Irvin.
17	REPORTED BY:	17	VICE-CHAIR, SECRETARY IRVIN:
18	John Fahrenwald, RPR		here. I think Jannie is froze up. Now she unfroze. She
19	Certified Reporter No. 50901		just blinked. Jannie, are you here?
20		20	MS. COX: I haven't been frozen. I've been
21			checking it out. I haven't been frozen. Fletcher and Mark
22	KATHY FINK & ASSOCIATES		are frozen. So is Edmund.
23	2819 East 22nd Street	23	CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: I'm unfrozen. Am I
24	Tucson, Arizona 85713	24	frozen? Okay. Maybe I was frozen. Did she call my name?
25	(520)624-8644		I missed the whole thing. We might have to start all over

We shut down the marketing dollars that we used to help with our downtown and activity. We deferred a number of projects, some of which probably won't come back. As you know, the TCC was separately financed; so that was never really in jeopardy. And the darkness during the Corona virus over there actually helped us accelerate the remodel. We're going to get a report from	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	and I scrutinized where that money came from. And we were expecting a significant amendment that was in there, and, lo and behold, that hadn't even shown up yet. I think we've got about another half million dollars sitting out there waiting to be received that I think we both thought this would happen in March, but it looks like is going to to be closer to more likely April. Other than that, I think pretty much the typical month. We've got hopefully some good numbers coming our way in April. I just don't know; and I haven't diagnosed the numbers well enough and broken them apart and analyzed to see the overall trends. But I do know that retail was up 27 percent compared to February. And restaurants and bars were up 23 percent. So, obviously, there's more activity within our District for our retail and bars and restaurants. And the construction dollars were up about $125,000. Again, I

CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: More than that. And they're coming back. I don't know if you saw, but the Home Show was back at the TCC this weekend. And I think they limited attendance maybe to 2500. But you are starting to
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	to talk about in a few minutes is part of that, but it's still to come. MR. MEYERS: Yeah. Our budget is 65,400,000 and some change. MR. SHEAFE: Right. MR. MEYERS: And all that blue if you just add that up, it comes out to zero in all cases. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: And, Dan, scroll back up to cash on-hand. Because you also eliminate the cash for the TCC from that report too. Right? So that 40 million bucks or however much is left these are non-TCC dollars? MR. MEYERS: Correct. Yeah, this is just money we've got sitting in our general accounts that we have	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	bunch of corrections in there. But still, I'd love to be at two million as well. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: This is without any entertainment. So the entertainment venues are still dark without any Jim Click automotive events, which produce about a half a million a year right, Dan? of sales tax benefit? MR. MEYERS: More than that. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: More than that. And they're coming back. I don't know if you saw, but the Home Show was back at the TCC this weekend. And I think they limited attendance maybe to 2500. 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	very well. It's pretty impressive, the team that we've got. And maybe and just sort of just start off related to that, there was an organization in town called Metropolitan Pima Alliance that every year does what they call the Common Ground Awards for its sort of extremely challenging projects and where diverse groups have come together to kind of park their egos and really make things work. And last Friday, the TCC Renovation Project received a Common Ground Award. I think really representing what Rio Nuevo and the City, Sundt+Concord, and all the other contractors that they've been coordinating with around not just Swaim, but we have three other architectural firms involved, as well as several engineering firms. And it's so really just worked out great. It's nice getting the recognition of the effort that we're doing. I guess and my thought it reminds me of the comment that it takes a community to create a community center. But I think we're already heading down the right track. And it feels good, absolutely. So, with that, a lot of work underway. The the new meeting room addition has steel going up if you see that on the west side of the convention center so really be excited there that is planned on being	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	baths in the middle of the night in the fountain, et cetera? MR. SWAIM: Well, we were thinking that taking baths might actually improve health. So as part of the project, we are upgrading lighting around the entire site for LED lighting, so it will be brighter and more dependable, as well as the historic landscape lighting, so that will certainly be helpful. We are upgrading some of the camera systems within the convention center itself. I would need to get back to the team. I don't think that we necessary right now have designed security systems for cameras to be able to cover the entire site. But I can certainly follow up on that to maybe have a better answer for you. MS. COX: We need to have some I think we need to have some plan for keeping the community safe with that much water available for people to fall in. MR. MARQUEZ: Did we end up decreasing the depth of the fountains at all? MR. SWAIM: It is slightly shallower. What we've done is run the pipes along the what was the floor of the fountain and covered that over. So it's we did not shallow them up, so they're more like a wading pool. But we had significant conversation with anywhere from

SHEAFE: You know, in answering that question I don't mean to butt in but does that net of the expense for the TEP line movement? MR. SWAIM: The total project budget is staying the same. So we are in great shape from that standpoint. MR. SHEAFE: No, my question was that the $1.2 million that's left, that's after allocating the money you needed to allocate for the TEP expense; is that right? MR. SWAIM: That's correct. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: Remind us, Phil, what the original contingency was. $3 million in change? MR. SWAIM: It was about $4 million, I believe. Some of those we adjusted be able to deal with some the significant cost inflation elements that have been going on in our industry right now. And to get some other scope like paving of Parking Lot B that we hadn't anticipated. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: We upsized the Lot C garage from those funds too. Right? MR. SWAIM: Yes, we did. We added a floor to	 that or after that time that could be completed. But nothing that is affecting shows, and that sort of thing The lead time on some of the sound system items are pretty significant. But I think the initial shows that will be coming in, in September, will actually bring in their own sound systems. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: I think we penciled Jackson Browne to reopen that venue. I don't remember the date, but it seems like it was mid-September. MR. SWAIM: Correct. I believe it's like th 18th or 19th is what we're aiming for there. Sundt+Concord has just done a masterful job trying to prepurchase materials. You may be reading in the papers about lead times on supplies, from steel, to PVC, to paint, to asphalt, et cetera. And so they have been prepurchasing. And right now, at least as of our conversation with morning, we think we're in pretty good shape staying up with that. So things seem to be good The GMP No. 10 that is in front of us toda is mainly for the Music Hall. About 90 percent of that i kind of the remaining portions of the Music Hall. And the we also have another small amount for some upgrades in the 	ut g. y e n in e b e o d d. y is n n e 2

Basically, we're talking about a rent subsidy for a production studio or sound stage up to $500,000 for the year, and a sales tax rebate equal to the Rio Nuevo portion of sales tax, 2.6 percent of their spend within the District. So that will be documented by our attorney and shared with the production company if the Board is so inclined. MR. SHEAFE: Mr. Chairman, I would propose that we proceed with the effort that's already been made, primarily by yourself. And since this involves negotiations and a changing environment, we authorize you to keep doing	9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	competing with New Mexico, who has an unbelievable incentive to attract film production to that state. CHAIRMAN McCUSKER: Finally, the marketing budget. This is probably not an automatic "no" today because we have seen a little improvement in our cash. I don't know if anybody wants to start spending any of that toward our marketing effort, or you would prefer just to defer this until next month. VICE-CHAIR, SECRETARY IRVIN: we need more than one month of good news. MS. COX: I agree. MR. MARQUEZ: Yeah. I would defer it to next month. We're getting close to putting out our budget, so
